ENGINEER COLLAUOTT KILLED IN WRECK

One Killed and Others Injured
In Train Wreck at Peirce
City

A head end collision between passenger train No. 403 and freight No. 430 occurred at Peirce City last night and resulted in the death of T. L. Collaouott, engineer of the freight and injury to Engineer Jas. Dwyer and two or three passengers.

Collaouott's chest and right foot were crushed and he was badly bruised and scalded about the head and face.

The passenger train from Monett to Oklahoma City was approaching Peirce City and when an attempt was made to stop the train and switch to the Oklahoma line the brakes refused to work and owing to the icy condition of the track the train rushed down upon the freight standing on the main line in front of the Peirce City depot.

The engineer and fireman of the passenger stuck to their post until just before the engines crashed together, then they jumped. Engineer Dwyer was considerably injured by the fall.

When Collaouott saw that the approaching train would crash into his engine he called to his fireman to jump and he himself attempted to rush from his cab but was caught in the entrance and pinioned in such a manner that escape was impossible and it was necessary to use axes and crowbars to release him. As soon as he was released he was started to the Frisco hospital at Springfield, but died enroute.

The two engines were badly smashed, an empty passenger coach was thrown on top of the passenger engine, while a coal car run under the freight tender and caught the engineer as he was leaving his cab.

Mr. Collaouott had been a resident of Monett for many years, and leaves a widow and one son. The body was brought back to Monett today. The deceased had many friends in Monett who are deeply grieved at his sudden taking away.

He learned the drug business in the Caffee drug store, after which he went to Colorado, where he engaged in the same business. Its very true that Arbuckle Coffee bought at any store would be just as good as if bought at Walsh's, but that kind of reasoning does not hold good. When it comes to buying good that requires knowledge, since knowledge is the fruit of experience, therefore goods bought by experienced buyer are much better values than goods bought by some one with little or no experience. When it comes to the fine or delicate natured goods such as Teas and etc and that's the very reason why you always get better value when you buy your goods at Walsh's.
